Shirt Manufacturer or Practical Manager

Wanted to organize and manage a factory to turn out one hundred dozen or more fine shirts per week for an established, fast-growing concern.

This is an exceptionally grand ground-floor proposition that will play a liberal salary with a fifty-fifty profit sharing arrangement (without any investment) to competent man who knows the game thoroughly, can get help and keep it and can produce results—not alibis.

Our proposition should particularly appeal to any ambitions man who is now well employed by a successful house in the capacity we have outlined, but who has nothing further than "a salarry" to look forward to for the rest of his life.

We will consider every application in the strictest co-fidence, but require full particulars of past and present connections, experience, age, approximate salary and earning, and earliest date can leave present position.

Would also consider taking over all or part output of established shirt factory.

FOUR HUNDRED AND NINETY-SIXTH CHAPTER. I LEARN KATHERINE MILLER WAS IN THE U. S. SECRET CERVICE.

The exquisite and distinguished handwriting of Katherine Miller startled me when I turned over my morning mail. I picked the note from the others and regarded it with mixed feelings. It had been written by the only human being I had ever permitted myself to hate. Was hate a boomerang which came back to harm the thrower! I wondered as I opened the lovely gray cayeslope whether it night not be the first bit of ammunition in the attack of that "sinister desting" which Chrys had prophesied.

"My defired Jane"—an the letter. "I am in bed with a turned aukle. Have just heard that you and Chrystobel are at home and I am so anxious to have you come over and tell me what happened in Mexico after we separated. Come to tea—this after-noon—can't you! What grand news about the reseure of your father-in-law! We all rejoice with all your family. My love as ever.—K. M."

"What's the matter with that girl?" I asked Bob, when he came in. "She knows perfectly well that I do not like her."
Bob read the note and then draw no down upon his knee.

"Jane, are you not a little unjue in your judgment of Kuther-net" he asked. The considerate tone of his voice angered me.

Maybe I do jump to conclusions about people," I admitted.

Maybe it's a bad habit, but I wan you to know, Bob, that I'm going to keep right on trusting my intuitions about Miss Miller."

"My dear, there's one thing about her you never were told and now's the time for you to know it. Katherine Miller has more sense and more ability than most women—"

I didn't interrupt my husband. I simply hated the girl worse than ever. In the estimation of all women she was a fool. But men—even my Bob—found her clever because she was such a sturning beauty! I bit my lip while Bob went on:

"Did you never suspect that Katherine had a laudable motive for that trip to Mexico!"

I shrugged my shoulders.

"Jane, see here! Katherine Miller was in the government see-ret service for months!"

"What!" I exclaimed. "She don't know enough—"
Bob tightened his arm around me. I felt like a had child held in a tight grip while medicine was poured down its threat.

"I should say it was!" I said sarcastically. "Katherine Miller used her heavity to make me love her, just so that she could get the secret infromation she was after!"
"Exactly! Don Manuel was her tool. You must admit that she knew how to take care of hereit very well!"
"So did Delihal! And a lot of others I could name. But won !!" I replied won !!" I replied won !!" I replied who was reaching for a cigarcite, but I Innew well enough that he was ananyed with me.

many more days have passed, for according to a rumor afloat day Eddie has seen the error of his ways and is anxious to be to back into the Woods fold. Eddie has been engaged to exhibit back into the Woods fold. Eddie has been engaged to exhibit his wares on Wednesday night next at the Grand Opers House and he must get Hank's permission before he can don a glove, and Woods is just the kind of a party who will forgive and forget. Since stain guy the boxing game he has treated all his boys with silk gloves and not with a whip hand, but he has experienced more trouble than any other few fight managers. It would lead one to believe that Henry is too easy-going with his scrappers.

While the Ontario Boxing Commission is still in its infancy, enough progress was made at last night's meeting to convince all in attendance that everything will come out in A.1 shape. The commission when appointed will consist of three men, the chairman to receive $2,500 per year for his services and the two assistants $1,000 each. This money will be collected by taxing each show that is held in Ontario, the commission to receive 5 per cent of the gross receipts, and then there is talk of each fight manager, trainer and refresh being taxed commission to receive 5 per cent of the gross receipts, and then there is talk of each fight manager, trainer and refresh being taxed commission to receive 5 per cent of the gross receipts.

Waits Hoyt is the real infant prodigy of baseball. Although he will not attain his majority until next September he is perhaps the best pitcher now on the staff of the Boston Red Sox, and has been in professional baseball for nearly five years. Hoyt came to the Giants in 1915, and between that year and last, when he was purchased by the Bed Sox from the New Orleans cited by the Southern Association, he served with a number of minor league clubs to which John McGraw farmed him. Hoyt is now mearly six feet tal and tips the beam at 186 pounds. He is remarkably strong and has a powerful pitching arm. In fact his fast ball is one of the best now being served up by major league pitchers and he is bound to be a tremendous asset to the Sox this year.

Jack Johnson recently had a bath in the ocean for which he was not prepared. While out with some Mexican oyster longers Jack became so intent upon gazing down into the depths that he falled to notice that his huge bulk was making the craft list at an alarming angle. He leaned out a trifle too far and suddenly the boat turned turile and Jack went it. The one-time heavyweight champion is an indifferent swimmer, but when he came to the surface he was able to reach the boat and hold on until it was righted. Jack said thas he drank more water during his unexpected bath than he had done in a month.
